Your Sure Path to Growing Sales and New Markets

SESAM electronic security systems is one of Germany's leading developers and manufacturers of RFID input systems. As our OEM partner, you can take advantage of our extensive standard portfolio of readers and system components for professional use: technologically mature, robust, and VdS certified.

Your desire is to complement existing product lines of yours attractively with minimum development risk or to introduce new components with additional features?

You can leverage our solution expertise and years of experience in development and manufacturing. We combine extensive know-how in the field of custom protocol development and adaptation with our understanding of reliable manufacturing and encapsulating methods. This makes us a dependable OEM partner, helping you to implement your product ideas in realistic time frames – from the initial inquiry through to the certified product.

The SESAM team can offer you:

- Standard components and/or custom developments
- Custom designed aluminium enclosures protecting your electronic circuits reliably thanks to state-of-the-art manufacturing methods
- Stylish design and high-quality aluminium or toughened glass finish
- Software and electronics development including protocol adaptation
- One-stop services – from concept to development and approval through to manufacturing.

For your benefit: You can reduce development costs and risk and attack your target markets with more speed, flexibility, and success.
